MTF Officials Thank Forest Fire Fighters

GAINESVILLE, MISS. - The NASA Marshall Space Flight Center has officially thanked personnel of the International Paper Company for their help in fighting forest fires on land at Mississippi Test Operations.

In a letter to R. S. Andrews, regional manager of the Gulf Region of the Company, Marshall commended several employees of the Company for their efforts. Fires have destroyed over 1,000 acres of timber in the NASA reservation. The largest loss came on January 6, when 825 acres were destroyed by fire.

The letter pointed out that this could have doubled its damage if it had not been for the efforts of employees of the Company.

The letter also stated that Hill has been very helpful in suggesting fire prevention measures to minimize losses in the area.

The letter was signed by Harry E. Smith, deputy director of the Marshall Center for administration, in the absence of Center director Werner Von Braun.

GAINESVILLE, MISS. - K. K. Menberg, deputy director of Saturn Systems Office, Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., visited Mississippi Test Operations this week. Menberg toured the Advanced Saturn and proposed Nova testing areas.

Saturn Systems Office in Huntsville manages the Saturn C-1 advanced Saturn C-5 development projects.

GAINESVILLE, MISS. - Additional signs, which will better the way for visitors and personnel of NASA's Mississippi Test Operations, will soon be placed on the massive reservation.

E. Batson, Jr., facilities engineer for MTO, said about a dozen signs would be erected soon. He also surveyed abandoned buildings on the 13,500 acre area of the reservation to see if any could be converted for temporary office space.

Additional MTO personnel will be living at the test site in the future.

PROTESTANT SERVICES PROVE SUCCESS

A community Protestant in-personal services held last week under the leadership of Rev. Lane of the Key Biscayne Presbyterian Church, Miami, Fla., were successful. The total attendance of the five evening services was estimated at between seven and eighteen hundred persons. Rev. Adams' sermons were forceful. Some two hundred persons responded to the call and indicated their decision to accept Christ as their personal savior and to endeavor to live according to His teachings. Special music each night included the hymn "How Great Thou Art," which is used by Graham in his crusades, and by the combined choirs, led by Mr. Sydney Buckley, director of the First Baptist Church in Gulfport and hymns by the congregation. The Gulfport church furnished the anthem and the Wednesday evening and the Tedford of Bay St. Louis solo on Thursday night. Reception and "Coffee hour" service were very helpful in establishing a fellowship among the different denominations.

Let Paving Contract

The State Highway Commission has awarded a contract for paving on 9.5 miles of the Kiln Road between Kiln and Bay St. Louis, according to John D. Smith, highway commissioner for the Southern District.

Mid-State Paving Co., of Meridian received the contract on a low bid of $171,937.80. It calls for incidental drainage, base and asphalt paving 22 feet wide. Grading and bridge construction on the road was done under an earlier contract.

Mr. Smith said work is scheduled to begin on the project as soon as contract documents are executed.

JAYCEES VOTE IN FAVOR OF REDISTRICTING

On Thursday, Feb. 21st, the Bay St. Louis Jaycees at their regular general membership meeting voted to send a delegation to the next Board of Supervisors meeting and ask for a unanimous vote for the redistricting of Hancock County. The Jaycees voted to endorse and actively support the redistricting of our County.

It was further voted that the Jaycees join with the Rotary Club in the construction of a fence between the Montluzin Drug Store and Bresslers' Cafe on the Beach. On the fence will be painted a sign "HELP TO KEEP OUR CITY CLEAN." Also an emblem of the Jaycees and the Rotary will be affixed to the fence.

A report by Bert Stieffell on the State Board Meeting held at Greenville, Miss., which included color film of some of the activities and plans were made for a "GO TO VICKSBURG" campaign. This is the site of the next State Board Meeting. Over 12 visiting Jaycees from other Coast Clubs were present at the meeting.

Mrs. Evelyn Russ Weston reigned as queen of St. Joseph Academy's 30th annual carnival ball Friday night. Her king was Robert Lee Kemery, District Manager in Mississippi and Alabama for Friedrich Room Air Conditioners.

The ceiling of the school auditorium was covered with blue paper from which hung myriads of glittering silver stars to give the effect of a pre-dawn sky.

The stage, decorated in blue with stars in keeping with the theme, held their majesties' throne flanked by two large white horses. The front of the stage was also decorated with blue paper and angel hair studded with stars.

The queen's gown of white de-lustered satin was fashioned on straight lines with a square neckline which went into a low back. The bodice and inserts of the skirt were embroidered in gold and silver sequins.

Her mantle of silver cloth, lined with plush pink satin, was bordered with a design embroidered in gold sequins, pearls and pink stones. She wore a crown of rhinestones and carried a matching scepter.

The maids wore full length evening gowns and carried bouquets of red and white striped carnations centered with a purple orchid and bordered with golden palm leaves. Maids and dukes were, Mrs. Richard Shadoin and Charles

Before recessing Chancery Court until Wednesday, Chancellor William G. Hewes, handed down a final decree Monday in the following styled case:

Bernice Elley Favre vs. Emory

The Hancock County board of supervisors went on record Monday as favoring redistricting of the county, but not at present, then voted 4 to 1 to seek permission to enter a chancery court suit seeking redistricting as "friends of the court."

The lone dissenting vote on the board motion to intervene was cast by board president R. G. Hubbard Jr. of Waveland, representative of populous beat five.

Hubbard said the motion to intervene was made by beat one Supervisor Harlan G. Dean, "at the suggestion of" Lucien M. Gex, attorney to the board. He said Gex offered to represent the board before the court "at no cost."

Hubbard said he joined other board members in voting unanimous approval of a motion by beat two Supervisor Isaac M. Frierson which put the board on record as favoring redistricting but not at the present time.

The Frierson motion, seconded by Dean, held the county should wait and see what effect the National Aeronautics and Space Administration static rocket test center will have on the county.

EXPLAINS VOTE

Explaining his vote for the motion favoring redistricting, Hubbard said:

"I thought the county should be redistricted and that has been my wish for many years. We have about 63 per cent of the people in beat five and they are not getting fair representation on the board."

Hubbard said he opposed the motion to intervene in the court suit as being inconsistent and commented:

"They (the board) don't care to have fair representation. They just are to have control."

"I think a public official should represent the people," he added. The three-man Hancock County election commission is the lone defendant to the redistricting suit in chancery court.

The suit, filed on behalf of the plaintiffs by Gulfport attorney Upton Sisson who carried a legislative reapportionment suit into state courts as attorney for a group of Harrison County citizens, has possibly historical significance.

The suit cites the equal rights guarantees of the 14th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution and also state laws which require a county to be redistricted from time to time on a population basis.

Serious inequities in the present distribution of population, voting strength and assessed valuations exist among the various beats at present, the suit sets out. It also notes that beats one and two, due to acquisition of land for the rocket test site, will become almost non-existent as far as population and assessed valuation is concerned.

The petition asks the court to bar holding of regular elections for supervisors this year unless the board puts into effect an acceptable redistricting plan.

General elections in November would be held from the county-at-large if the board failed to comply with a requested court order.

Eighth District Chancellor William G. Hewes permitted the board of supervisors to intervene as "friends of the court" in a suit seeking to redistrict Hancock County.

When court recessed at noon, arguments were being heard on a general demurrer to a plea for temporary injunction sought by three Bay St. Louis men who are asking the court to bar 1963 elections for supervisors from being held on the present district apportionment.

The county election commission is defendant to the landmark suit and the general demurrer was filed by Norton Haas of Bay St. Louis who was admitted by agreement as an election commissioner replacing Johnson Shaw who had resigned.

Attorneys Lucien M. Gex of Bay St. Louis and Joel Bliss of Waveland are representing Haas and the board of supervisors. Attorney Sam Favre is counsel for the other two election commissioners, Ray M. Russell Jr., and J. Richard Watson.

Gulfport attorney Upton Sisson is counsel for the plaintiffs, Emory Favre, Dr. Andrew M. Gex Jr., Dr. Andrew M. Gex Jr., and Wilbert L. Gex.

GARDEN NOTES

Believe it or not, temperature-wise, but it is now time to begin planting that early spring garden. Vegetables recommended for planting in January include onions, mustard, leaf and head lettuce, carrots, cabbage, English peas, Irish potatoes, radishes, spinach, turnips, tendergreens and parsley.

Gardening really steps up in February. In early February plant the hotbed for April tomato, pepper and eggplant plants.

Make your garden plan. Apply barnyard fertilizer, prepare rows, rake up a seed order and be sure to buy enough for two plantings.

WEED CONTROL
Handled right, 2,4-D will kill cock and thistle. But using this chemical is like most other things. The job has to be done right to be really effective.

"One pound per acre of 2,4-D will kill all the dock and thistle that is growing. But be sure the temperature is 60 degrees or above when the spraying is done."

Do not spray 2,4-D where crimson clover, red clover, hop clover or Persian clover are growing. Vetch and winter peas will also be killed out by 2,4-D.

For more information on using this chemical for weed control, call on your local county agent.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Planning to start drawing your social security soon? If so, you must want to start getting your money in hurry.

Here are a few of the things to take into account when you start planning for your social security.

First, you must know your own record. You must know how long you have been working and how much you have been earning.

Second, you must know the rules. The rules change from time to time, and you must know the latest rules.

Third, you must know your own needs. You must know how much money you need to live on, and how much you need to save for the future.

Fourth, you must know your own options. You must know the different ways you can draw your social security, and the pros and cons of each.

Fifth, you must know your own responsibilities. You must know the responsibilities you have to your family, and how social security can help you meet those responsibilities.

Sixth, you must know your own future. You must know what you want to do in the future, and how social security can help you achieve your goals.

GAINESVILLE, MISS. CEMETERIES TO BE RELOCATED, ARMY ENGINEERS SAY

Colonel D. A. Raymond, District Engineer for the Corps of Engineers at Mobile, announced today that plans have been completed for the removal of remains interred in two cemeteries located in the Mississippi Test facility construction site area in Gainesville, Mississippi. Colonel Raymond said that approximately 450 interments have been made in the two cemeteries.

Construction of the giant Mississippi Test Facility for NASA requires that the cemetery sites be cleared. The District Engineer said that next of kin of all persons known to have been interred in the cemetery have been consulted as to their wishes regarding a new interment site. Agreements have been reached between the Government and surviving relatives on preferred sites for reburial.

Colonel Raymond said that agreements have also been reached with all but one of the cemeteries where remains will be reinterred.

The Army Engineers, NASA's agent for real estate, engineering and construction at the Mississippi space test center, will submit a relocation plan incorporating the agreements to the Federal Court in Biloxi. After approval by the court, the Army Engineers will advertise for bids from qualified morticians and funeral homes for the removal of the remains under stringent conditions to insure that the task is carried out with dignity and reverence. The successful contractors will make arrangements for hiring any additional employees needed to carry out the removal.

Colonel Raymond said that stories have been circulating that workers engaged in the removal work would be quarantined for extended periods of time and would be paid large sums for their services. These and similar rumors arise every time a large cemetery removal is planned, he stated, and are without foundation of fact. There will be no quarantine of workers and payment by the contractor performing the work will be in line with normal payments for this type of work.

Kantcha Ketchum

The weather for the carnival season was as bad as the weather for fishing. Cold and rainy all the time. Went fishing at Boutte Saturday and caught a few fish. The water in Louisiana as in Mississippi is on the "muddy side", hence the fish are reluctant to bite. Perch and green trout are being caught on worms and frozen shrimp.

Luke Elliott, David and Jack Sibley, Tony Enterante, Jr., and yours truly caught a mess of fish after some hard fishing and a day spent in the rain. They were hitting the small surface baits, worked rather slowly. A couple of large green trout were in the catch.

Now that all hunting seasons have closed more time will be devoted to fishing, soft crabbing and floundering during the next few months.

According to Howard Carver, he and John Monti caught 86 flounders at Cat Island last week. It's not impossible, but I hope they were right. Cat Island is a little way out but it is a wonderful place to catch flounders and soft crabs.

Want to correct a boo-boo made last week in this column regarding the site of the camp for rent by Eddie LaCoste, it is on Bayou La Croix instead of Jordan River as stated.

It was a mad rush Sunday at the Enterante, home when our grandchildren Mr. and Mrs. Morris Daniels Jr., were preparing to participate in the parade of Venus held Sunday. Diane was on a float and Morris was a Duke in the parade and both appeared in the ball.

Jack and David Sibley are getting to be real fly fishermen. Both love the sport and go on any provocation. A little more practice boys is all that is needed.

Dan, a real sport said it was like showing off a good catch when he presented his daughter of the court.

According to reports a few speckle trout were caught over in front of old Pine Hill Hotel last week. The place is now a seminary of the Oblate Fathers. This spot is also a noted soft crab and floundering place.

Alden Mauffray says after fly fishing all afternoon, Wednesday, he threw a blank. My mother told me there would be days like this Alden.

We understand that a golf team has been organized at St. Stanislaus. The boys are enthusiastic and are devoting much time to practice. A real team is in the making according to the instructors.

John Scafield, Jr., and John Genin are now shooting in the low 70's. Being members of the S. S. C. golf team they should be assets to the school.

The barge lodged against the seawall at Clermont Harbor must have had a merry ride when it broke loose when being towed.

To the surprise of many Fullmer and Dick Tiger fought to a draw last Saturday night. Fullmer wants another chance at the champion.

BRELAND GUEST SPEAKER AT JAYCEES MEETING

E. J. Breland, Civil Defense Instructor for St. Bernard Parish, Chalmette, La., was guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Bay St. Louis Jaycees last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ed. Salila.

Mr. Breland discussed the hazards of fallout and radiation and proper first aid procedure in case of nuclear attack.

Mrs. Michael Haas, president, presided over the business session.

The Jaycees are now collecting old, wearable clothing that can be repaired, to be given to the Welfare Department.

Anyone having clothes to donate can contact Mrs. Don Luxich at HO-7-5672, Mrs. Andre Arceneaux, 7-5519, or Mrs. John Koennen, 7-5123, and they will be picked up.

Following the business meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Bert Stieffell and Mrs. Joseph Kersanac.

The next meeting will be held March 13, in the home of Mrs. Michael Haas, at which time J. E. Erwin will present a program on sewing tips.

COUNCIL ON MENTAL RETARDATION NAMED

"The general purpose of the council," Barnett said, is to bring together the departments and organizations serving the mentally retarded to encourage and help develop programs dealing with all aspects of retardation services."

Barnett pointed out that Congress is now considering a bill to allocate $2 million to the states for planning comprehensive action to combat mental retardation.

"These grants will be awarded on a selective basis to state agencies presenting acceptable proposals for broad interdisciplinary planning activities," Barnett said. "Some $40,000 could be made available to the state for the use of the council in planning for the retarded."

AGRICULTURE'S "ALL - AMERICAS"

Mississippians love and laud their winners, especially in the realm of football and basketball. They adore and honor their "All Americas," because they have achieved the highest award that can be earned in physical competition.

But the less spectacular fields of agriculture and business arouse no such interest and claim no such applause. But high performance in farming requires a high degree of scientific knowledge, great technical skill, and many months of hard work.

Our best farmers deserve recognition. And during the past week a significant event took place at Mississippi State University at State College. Only a relatively small group of people attended the event. But suitable recognition was given and high honors were accorded to Mississippi's 1962 cotton production winners. The list of "All America" cotton growers represented every section of the state and proved beyond any question of doubt the possibility of our soils and the skill of our farmers.

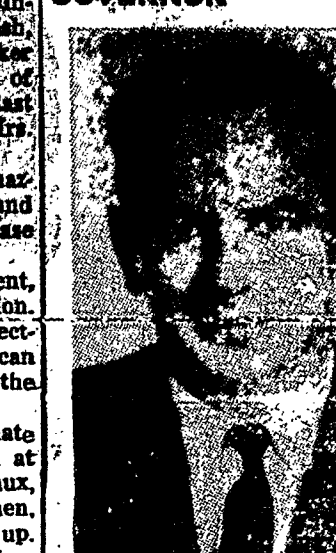

All Mississippians can properly and spontaneously join in applauding the efforts of these star cotton growers. They are taking the lead in the program which is designed to "stimulate the economic production of higher yields of quality cotton," said Charles E. Moore, of the Mississippi Extension Service, which sponsored the statewide competition.

The Le Compte handicap. Good cards are in store for the remainder of the racing season. Many local fans were on hand.

Members of the Shamrockers enjoyed a supper and outing last week. The Shamrockers are a social group and have monthly suppers.

Better get that boat ready. Fishing should be good as soon as the weather clears and gets warmer. Inspect the motor and get it in good shape. A faulty motor can ruin a fishing trip right now. Cause ugly words to flow fluently.

TROY B. WATKINS ANNOUNCES FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

Troy B. Watkins of Natchez announced today his candidacy for the office of lieutenant governor of the State of Mississippi. The son of a Methodist minister, he was born in Vicksburg in 1925. He is a graduate of Copiah-Lincoln Junior College and Millsaps College. In 1948 he obtained his masters degree from the University of Mississippi. He was a member of the faculty of Delta Junior College in Moorhead for two years before moving to Natchez in 1950.

In 1958 Troy was elected Mayor of Natchez at the age of thirty-one, the youngest mayor in the history of Natchez. He was re-elected in 1958 for a four-year term but did not seek re-election in 1962. While Mayor of Natchez every point in his platform was carried out. During the time that he was mayor he took an active part in the Mississippi Municipal Association, was a member of its executive committee for five years, was chairman of its legislative committee for one year, and was elected president of the association in June of 1961.

Troy has owned and operated a successful business in the City of Natchez for the past thirteen years. He is a member of the Methodist Church and has served many years on its official board and as lay-leader. He is a member of the Masons, Shriners, Eastern Star, Moose, Elks, Civitan, and the American Legion. He served in World War II and the Korean conflict, being discharged with the rank of First Lieutenant. He is married to the former Margaret Sullivan of Bude and Prentiss, Mississippi and is the father of five children - three boys and two girls.

Troy stated today that it is his intention to wage a very aggressive campaign for lieutenant governor of the state. He summed up his beliefs as follows: I am a strong believer in states rights and local self-government without interference from the federal government. Mississippi has one of the brightest futures of any state in these United States. I am a strong believer in segregation of the races. I believe that Mississippi's greatest resource is her people; that Mississippians are a people with a purpose; and that the people from the South in general, and Mississippi in particular, must stem the tide of socialism that has encompassed this nation of ours and turn the government back to those basic principles and constitutional government upon which this nation was founded. I will be most active in the agricultural as well as the industrial development of the state. I believe that the state has a definite responsibility to assist in the care of the indigent, but that every able-bodied man should be required to earn his subsistence.

Our greatest hope for the future lies in our educational facilities and our youth. These leaders of tomorrow should be given educational opportunities second to none in this nation.

Mississippi must maintain its financial integrity, avoid deficit financing, and improve the per capita income of its citizens. If honored with election, I will work in cooperation with the governor, whomever he may be, for the further development of this great state of ours. I will never be known as a fence-sitter, but will work diligently to serve the best interests of the people of Mississippi.

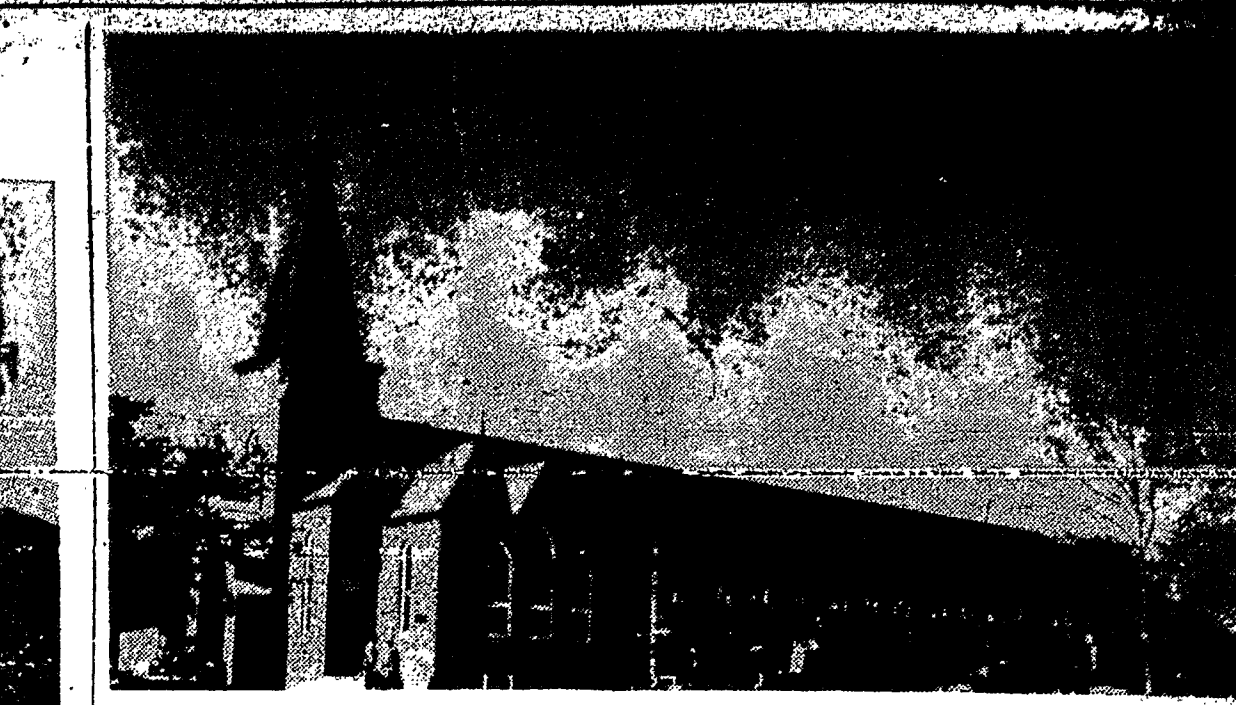

I earnestly solicit your active support in this race. It is my sincere desire to serve the people of this great state in these trying times."

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT ERECT ANTI- LITTER SIGNS

The Hancock County Commerce has been Mr. A. M. White, Traffic and Safety Engineer of the Mississippi State Highway Department, that anti-litter signs will be erected on U. S. Highway 90 through Bay St. Louis. This action is a request by the local to Commissioner John A. that these signs be provided.

Mr. White also states that the signs will be made of the by the Hancock County of Commerce that will be installed at the approach of the three signal lights on Highway 90 through Bay St. Louis. It was pointed out to Commissioner Smith that because of the west direction of the highway the glare of the sun at times during the day made it most impossible for motorists to take notice of the lights thereby resulting in a hazardous driving condition.

MRS. McCAGHAN PASSES ON

Mrs. S. J. Isabella McCaghan, 80, died at 9 a. m. Monday, February 18, in Bay St. Louis.

A retired registered nurse, Mrs. McCaghan was a 50 year member of the Registered Nurses Association of Louisiana. She spent most of her nursing profession in Mexico and Central America, and had resided at 440 Main Street, Bay St. Louis, for the past seven years.

She was the sister of Mrs. Tazena Tarilton of Portland, Oregon. She is also survived by a niece, Mrs. Lloyd White of Coral Gables, Fla.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon from Riemann's Fahey-Whitfield Funeral Chapel with the Rev. E. A. Lindsey, pastor of the Presbyterian Church and the Rev. Charles Johnson, rector of Christ Episcopal Church officiating. Interment was in Long Beach Cemetery, Long Beach, Miss.

received or realized on or after that date.

The yield has varied greatly during this period. During 1932, our state income tax produced a total revenue of $288,498.40. The high year was 1960 when the State collected income taxes in the sum of $21,374,634.77.

Our Mississippi Income Tax Law is administered by the Chairman of the State Tax Commission who, by the provisions of the statute, is the Commissioner of Income Tax. The Commissioner, in his effort to serve all taxpayers as expeditiously as possible, has created and placed in operation nine district service offices. These are located in Senatobia, Tupelo, Greenwood, Columbus, Jackson, Meridian, Brookhaven, Hattiesburg and Gulfport. Anyone who wishes information relative to the State Income Tax Law, or who desires help in determining his income tax liability, if such exists, will receive such assistance or advice by writing, telephoning, or calling at any of these offices. Every effort is made to make the taxpaying process as pleasant as possible. The employees of the State Tax Commission fully realize that their task of assisting the taxpayer is much less onerous than that of paying the tax which may be due. They also know that the taxpayer is their employer and, while they will give advice when requested, returns which they may prepare for any taxpayer are, in the final analysis, that taxpayer's return, and the taxpayer is responsible for the figures and the information appearing thereon.

This is the first of a series of short discussions concerning our Mississippi Income Tax Law. Successive discussions will relate to "Who Should File a Return?", "What Constitutes Gross Income?", discussions of the deductibility of certain items such as business expenses, taxes, interest, contributions, etc., and some of the principal differences between the State and Federal Income Tax Law.

FIRE ANT BAIT PLANT READY FOR OPERATION

Governor Ross Barnett said Allied Chemical Corporation's new fire ant bait plant will go into operation near Aberdeen in about 10 days. Barnett met with John Damon, director of agricultural chemicals for Allied and newsmen at his office. The governor said the plant was the first of its kind in the country.

Damon said the new bait was a mixture of cottonseed oil, soybean oil, and a carbon-chlorine chemical. He said Mississippi had tested the bait and found it harmless to livestock and fish, and that Jack Warren, publicity director for the State Game and Fish Commission, had put it in a fish pond used by livestock for drinking without ill effects.

Damon said the poison had also been found effective with other kinds of ants.

The new plant will use a maximum of 45 employees.

MOTOR VEHICLE INSPECTION HAS MONTH TO RUN

The mid-point of the 1963 motor vehicle inspection period has just passed and according to Highway Patrol the inspection program is going according to expectations. The following points were also brought out by the Patrol. "The Mississippi Highway Patrol motor vehicle inspection stations began inspecting vehicles the 1st of January and will continue. The inspection period ends March 31 and you have until that time to have your vehicle inspected without penalty. Beginning the 1st of April all law enforcement officers will begin checking for expired stickers.

"As in the past, the five items inspected for are brakes, lights, steering, tires and windshield wipers. All these safety features are vital and we take great pride in the safety measures incorporated in our inspection program.

Inspection stations are located throughout the state and each driver is free to have his vehicle inspected at any inspection station

OUR MISSISSIPPI INCOME TAX LAW
Historical - Administration
Mississippi has imposed a tax on net income since March 16, 1912. Many years have passed, but there are many persons liable to pay an income tax to the State of Mississippi who do not know there is such a law, and who are wholly unacquainted with its provisions and requirements. For that reason, it is necessary that an effort be made to try to inform them. This is being done through the generous and whole-hearted cooperation of the press of the State of Mississippi, which has gladly donated space for this information which it is hoped, will be welcomed by all present and future State income taxpayers.

The Mississippi Income Tax Law was first enacted on March 16, 1912. This early statute imposed a tax of 1% of 1% on the net income of every individual or corporation in excess of $2,500.00. This law was amended on April 1, 1924, and replaced by a modernized statute, closely modeled after

1963 COULD BE RECORD YEAR IN FATALITIES

1963 could be a record-breaking year for traffic deaths if the present trend continues, according to Lewis Graeber, President of the Mississippi Safety Council.

Graeber stated that January saw the number of traffic deaths increase by five over the same period last year and noted that forty-four more people were killed during 1962 than were in 1961.

"The increase in the number of deaths did not increase the state's mileage death rate," Graeber said. "However, it is still a fact that Mississippi's rate is approximately 50% higher than the national average."

With ours being one of the most fatal states in the country, this is a sad situation, indeed," Graeber said that safety experts are convinced that public apathy is one of the main reasons for the continuing increase in traffic deaths.

"No one gets disturbed or angry when three or four people are killed in one wreck," Graeber said. "They accept it as a natural thing if fifteen or twenty people are killed during a weekend, and if a person is a victim of a hit-and-run, there isn't too much concern shown for the victim or his killer."

"Conversely," he continued, "if two people are murdered by a gun or a knife, the entire state becomes an armed posse until the 'fiend' is captured and jailed."

"The drunk who causes a fatal wreck, the incompetent driver, or the road hog who forces another vehicle into a ditch or a tree killing someone in the process is given a slap on the wrist and freed so he can kill someone else."

The Safety Council President said many people complain of the use of radar to apprehend traffic law violators and refer to it as a "speed trap."

"However," he said, "These same people refer to the setting of a trap to catch a safe cracker or a thief as 'good police work'."

"We have only a few murders and lose only a few dollars to thieves each year. Yet, the drunks, the incompetents, the road hogs, the careless and the roadhogs kill almost 600 people each year with a loss of some $80 million to the state, and the people say nothing."

"It just doesn't make sense," he said.

The Safety official said the Mississippi Traffic death toll could be reduced by 50%. According to him, it would require enforcement of traffic laws on all levels and a complete modernization of the traffic code. The changes would include a strengthening of the Driver Licensing law to require a periodic examination of all driver authority to revoke the license of those failing to pass the examination.

Graeber said that in the meantime, the people could do much to protect their lives by demanding a complete and proper inspection of their vehicles as required by law.

"Too many people try to buy an inspection sticker without submitting their vehicle to an inspection, and many of them are successful in their efforts," Graeber said.

He said the Highway Patrol cannot keep all 1200 inspection stations under surveillance all the time and that people should make certain their vehicles are in a safe condition when they leave the station.

The law requires a road or machine test of the brakes. Each headlight must be tested for power, focus and aim. The tail lamps must be visible for at least 500 feet. The steering must be tight and front wheels must be in alignment, the tires must not show any fabric, be burred or cut. The windshield wiper on the driver's side must function properly.

"If the owner of the vehicle accepts less than a detailed inspection of that listed, he is not getting his money's worth, and he is endangering his life and the lives of others by driving an unsafe vehicle."

Graeber said motor vehicle inspection was not an answer to the traffic problem, but it was a giant step in the right direction.

FORESTRY NOTES

The Mississippi Forestry Association, an organization of individuals and companies interested in forestry development, is encouraging timberland owners who have hardwoods growing on suitable sites, to protect these hardwoods for larger production and higher quality.

E. H. Hube, Laurel, chairman of the MFA Hardwood Committee, said that the volume of quality hardwoods grown in Mississippi is decreasing. "The volume of pine is increasing, but pine cannot serve as a substitute for hardwoods which have many distinctive uses."

According to all indications, the market outlook for good hardwood timber is promising. There is a strong demand for hardwood lumber and veneer logs. Hardwood stands also yield pulpwood, ties, posts and other products. "Good hardwood lumber is in continuous demand for the manufacture of furniture, flooring, implement handles, and a variety of other specialized uses," the hardwood chairman said.

Mississippi has a considerable acreage in river and creek bottoms and in the brown loam bluff area which grows valuable species of hardwood such as yellow poplar, oak, hickory, sweet gum, cottonwood and other species. The total hardwood area in Mississippi, Hube said, accounts for about 46 percent of the commercial forest area of the state.

The hardwood committee has emphasized the importance of fire control, protection from grazing, selective cutting, stand improvement, and full utilization of all harvested trees. Individual farmers and timberland owners can obtain advice on managing their hardwoods from foresters employed by state and federal forestry agencies and wood-using industries as well as from consulting foresters.

A number of facts on hardwood growth, harvest, and products are contained in a wallet size folder recently published by the Mississippi Forestry Association. Chairman Hube said that the folder, Mississippi Hardwood Forestry Facts, is available through members of the committee or from MFA headquarters, King Edward Hotel, Jackson, Mississippi.

An appeal for care and common sense in field, brush pile and ditch bank burning was made today by Glenn Purvis of the Mississippi Forestry Commission.

"Mississippi annually is at or near the top of the list of states in the number of man-caused fires," he said.

These fires, he explained, usually arise from indifference, carelessness or plain arson and cause multiplied thousands of dollars of damage each year. Not only is damage done to stands of timber, but also to other valuable natural resources. Wildlife lead, in many instances, to erosion of the soil, the destruction of its water-holding capacity and other undesirable conditions.

For those who plan to burn fields, ditch banks, brush piles or other debris, Glenn Purvis listed the following precautions which should be observed.

1. Plow or disc a firebreak around the area to be burned if there is any danger of the fire burning into other areas.

2. Set the fire to burn into the wind rather than with it. This makes control of the fire more positive.

3. Burn during periods of low winds. Usually this means in the late afternoon.

4. Do not burn during extremely dry periods or when there is a high wind. Stay with the fire until it is out.

5. Notify the Commission's dispatching tower in your county of your intention to burn. This will relieve the dispatcher of the need to send a crew to check on the smoke when it is sighted from the towers and will make the crew available for use on a wildfire should one arise.

Homemaker and Home Economist? Who's a "homemaker" and who's a "home economist"? There is sometimes popular confusion about these terms.

Good homemakers often become better ones by using the services of home economists. Some home economists you probably know are your home demonstration agent,

FIGURES INDICATE CHANGE IN STATE POPULATION TREND

STATE COLLEGE. - A reversal in population trends seems to be occurring in Mississippi since the 1960 Census was taken, according to Ellen S. Bryant of the Experiment Station rural sociology department at Mississippi State University. Mrs. Bryant reports.

"Population estimates for 1961 indicate that the state is experiencing the beginning of a net immigration of white persons and a continued, but declining, net outmigration of nonwhites. Figures released by the U. S. Bureau of the Census set the state's total population at 2,248,000 in July of 1962, representing a gain of 3.2 percent since April of 1960. In 1961, the state's population reached an estimated 2,212,600 for a gain of about 1.6 percent. The estimated increase amounts to about 30 thousand for each year since the census was taken.

"The population increase seem to be spread throughout a majority of the counties and apparently the result of growth of both the white and nonwhite groups. The percent of gain for the white population is larger than can be accounted for by natural increase alone, while that for nonwhites is less than would have accrued from the retention of natural increase."

"The change in trends evidenced by the 1961 and 1962 estimates is somewhat startling in view of the extremely heavy population losses the state has experienced over the last two decades when a net of about 800,000 left the state."

"Because of the abruptness of the indicated change the new trends should be viewed and analyzed with caution - in spite of the strong evidence of their reality - until it can be established whether they are only temporary fluctuations or real indicators of the start of a permanent expansion of Mississippi communities and their economies."

"Trends in the economy offer some explanation of the new population growth. Growth in manufacturing has been steadily increasing in Mississippi. The full impact of the new industry gained by the state in 1961 has probably not yet been felt, and it seems reasonable to assume that the state is continuing and possibly accelerating the population and industrial growth instigated in 1961."

"Jobs in agriculture were also on the upswing in the state during 1961. Total annual wages paid in agriculture, fishing and forestry were 18.5 percent higher in 1961 than in 1960. These figures suggest the possibility that the severe losses of farm population during the 1950's have at least temporarily leveled off."

Details of Mrs. Bryant's report, including figures for each county in the state, are available on request from the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station at State College, Mississippi.

WILLARD FINAL RITES HELD

Fred M. Willard, 53, died at 3:30 p. m. Thursday, February 21, in Hancock General Hospital. He had been in ill health for some time.

A native of New Orleans, he had resided in Bay St. Louis about 20 years. He was maintenance man for St. Stanislaus College.

The State Health Officer pointed out that Salk vaccine is a killed virus and, therefore, completely safe, and that the widespread use of this vaccine for the past several years has been the chief factor in its former prevalence. Until further notice, Salk vaccine will continue to be the chief method of protection given by county health departments in Mississippi, both by primary series of three injections and by booster injections.

DEADLINE NEARS FOR 1963 FEED GRAIN SIGNUP

"Don't think it over too long," is the word passed along to feed grain producers by Tommy R. Shaw, Chairman, Hancock Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee. He reminds growers who are interested in taking part in the 1963 feed grain program that filing an "intention to participate" form at the ASAC's county office is a necessary first step, and the signup period extends only through March 22. This gives farmers only a few days longer in which to make up their minds about 1963 production plans.

The Chairman reports that farm interest is higher than last year in Hancock County. Indications are that 1963 participation will (equal, run well ahead of) that under last year's feed grain program.

Minimum diversion under the 1963 program is 20 percent of the individual farm's total feed grain base. For diverting more than the minimum acreage from feed grain production into a conserving use, the diversion payment will be figured at a higher rate.

Besides the diversion payments available through participation in the feed grain program, participating farmers also qualify for a special price-support payment on the normal production of the acreage planted to feed grains in 1963, and they are also eligible to put their crop under the regular price-support loans or purchase agreements. If the farmer wishes, a part of the diversion payment may be made in advance.

Chairman Shaw points out that participation in the feed grain program not only saves the farmer the costs of planting and harvesting acres of unneeded feed grains while guaranteeing a substantial income from his diverted acres, but it also increases the conservation of the Nation's cropland, continues the reduction of government feed grain stocks, and saves dollars for taxpayers by reducing the cost of storage, shipping, and handling the government-owned grains.
